Polaris Missile is Launched

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (P) Polaris missile, using a new self-contained guidance system, was named on a successful 900mile flight Thursday night.

The success was a significant step in developing the Polaris as a nuclear punch for occan-roying submarines. For the first time, the Polaris was directed to its target by the inertial guidance system which will be used in the operational vehicles. Previous Polaris test rockets employed command guidance from ground stations. The Navy announced the successful flight, ninth in 24 launch-
